Maritime Projects in Luxembourg

The Luxembourg regulatory, tax and legal environment is invaluable for an complex and evolving industry.

Several leading world players have established businesses in Luxembourg, both upstream and downstream from the actual shipping activity itself.

While certain countries have implemented preferential “tonnage tax” systems, Luxembourg applies the general provisions of their tax legislation. This offers several advantages:

- Accelerated depreciation
- Investments tax credits
- Research grants and incentives
- Repair & maintenance provisions allowed
- Roll-over of capital gains

The Luxembourg maritime administration is one of the few administrations that maintain a quality management system leading to ISO 9001.

A shipping license will be granted to a company who has secured the services of a director who is accredited by the Minister in charge of maritime affairs.

How it Works

Income tax

A Luxembourg shipping company is subject to tax on its worldwide income.

Corporate income tax rate ranges from 20% to 22% depending on the income level. In addition, a surcharge of 4% is payable to the unemployment fund. The effective tax rate amounts to approximately 22.88%. Taxable income is based on the annual financial statements prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

Losses can be carried forward without limitation

Roll-over of capital gains on the sale of vessels

Capital gains realized on the disposal of a qualifying vessel will be subject to tax at standard rate.

Neutralisation of a capital gain allowable for ships operated in international traffic by transferring it to assets acquired with the proceeds of the sale. The vessel must have been held for at least five years before sale.

Depreciation of vessels

Depreciation is based on the useful life of vessel; Luxembourg income law tax provides for two types of depreciation:

- Linear depreciation: for a vessel whose useful life is 12 years, the depreciation will amount to 8.33% of the purchase price per year
- Accelerated depreciation: depreciation can be accelerated to three times the linear depreciation rate without exceeding 30%. Therefore, for a ship with a useful life of 12 years, the initial depreciation could be increased to 25%.

Large-repair and maintenance work on ships

Luxembourg allows reasonable provisions concerning large scale repair and maintenance work on ships as tax deductible in the year they are booked even if the work is not carried out in the same year.
